The County Fair.

We begin our record of the fair, as we have been compelled to do for several years, with an apology for the weather. It is becoming almost proverbial that whatever other thing there may be the Barton fair will be set to strike a rain storm. Whether providential or accidental the effect is the same, and the inconvenience, disagreeableness and loss occasioned by the rain are such as to greatly injure the fair. This year, after a long drought, the rains began to fall the night before the fair and it rained almost uninterruptedly till the three days ended. Despite the unfavorable prospects those who had stock and articles for exhibition came out in good numbers and made an exhibition that under favorable auspices might be considered fairly good. In some departments the show was creditable, and in none a failure. Owing to the fact that everything was crowded into the rain and most of it into a few hours on Wednesday, we are unable to give a very full newspaper account of it. We make a special mention of only a few things, such as we saw.

The one part of the exhibition most worthy was the show of horses, which was large and very creditable. The interest taken during the last few years in thoroughbred and fine blooded horses has improved the character of horse stock much and there are at present many animals of great merit. In stallions there were many of the noted horses of the county. We noticed among the number the Knowlton horse, the Bean, the Burbank & Williams, the Kimball and others among those entered as roadsters, all noted, and among horses for general purpose, the Mossman "Coach Boy," the fine Hobson horse, the Boden, the Oliver, and others. Among the large number of two and three year olds we mention the Harriman colt, the Anderson, the Prance and the Bean colts. D. B. Cushman of Burke showed a Percheron-Morgan, two years old, which weighed 1310 pounds—a fine animal. We might add the names of the Grout & Owen, the B. B. Blake, the John Mathie, the C. A. Doody, the O. A. Grow, the G. A. Ware, the S. E. King stallions in the list of worthy animals.

In brood mares and colts there were a large number. Of mares we mention the Kittredge mare, the L. S. Nye, the Jerry Drew, the Nelson Lyman, the H. H. Leland, the E. F. Hinkley and Andrew Wright's. Several of these and others which show fine colts of different ages to show the character of their stock. Among the many fine sucking colts it was not an easy matter to determine the best. Mr. Nye, Mr. Drew, Mr. Jenness, Mr. Danforth and many others showed large and fine-bred colts. The colts, yearlings and two year olds, were rather too many for us to "catch on" very fully. Of those entered as roadsters we mention the two fine colts entered by L. S. Nye, the Burbank & Williams, the D. D. Bean, the Hagar, the Dexter, the James Dwyer, the C. B. Leland, the M. P. Jenness, the E. F. Hinkley colts. J. B. Freeman showed an excellent pair of work horses.

Of carriage horses there were about twenty-five entries and it would not be possible for us to pass wisely on their merits. In matched horses there were several fine spans, including the Lovett, the Crane, the Geo. Whitney, the Baird and the Owen. Altogether the horse show was very satisfactory. Many of the best roadsters were entered in some of the races and are not mentioned here.

The show of oxen was very good. Barton, on account of the ease of driving oxen in, had much the larger number of oxen. A string of five yokes was made up of pairs belonging to Messrs. Hawkins, Wiggins, Nelson, Williamson, and John and C. B. Leland. All these are nice pairs. Mr. Hawkins' twin pair of Dutch cattle are fine and others were among the best shown for some years. E. F. Hinkley of Glover and Salmon Dodge of Irasburgh each showed a very large and thrifty pair of oxen that were among the very best. A. A. Williams showed two pair of pretty steers and there were a few pairs beside.

The number of animals of the different breeds of cattle, except in Jerseys, was small. The Jerseys were entered in good numbers. Dr. R. B. Skinner took the lead, showing several of his registered cows, bulls, etc. His stock is good. When he buys he gets the best and all that good feed and good care can do is done to develop and keep up his cows. His butter yield is very large. The Dr. entered thirteen animals. J. E. Cook, who has had from time to time some of the Skinner stock, has a good herd of Jerseys and grade Jerseys which show well and have an excellent record as milkers. C. W. & F. Comstock showed a very fine bred bull and several grade animals that were awarded premiums. W. T. Wiggins exhibited a bull of the Commae pattern that was very meritorious. C. F. Cutler had grade stock that showed excellent points. C. B. Leland, E. P. Beach, B. M. R. Nelson and others exhibited grade Jersey stock.

In the Durham line Charles Lunt of Derby made a good show; his bull was a very large and fine animal, and his other stock worthy of its class. In grade Durhams, F. D. Williamson, W. T. Wiggins, B. M. R. Nelson, C. B. and A. J. Leland, and H. P. Coburn had stock that helped up the department considerably. The Devons were present in fair numbers. A. C. Chase showed a very fine bull and bull calf. E. F. Hinkley showed several fine young animals, and Mr. Nelson some young stock. The Herforders are coming into fashion somewhat and were shown by C. B. Leland, W. E. Anderson and B. M. R. Nelson. Fred Colliston got a premium on his heifer calf. Frank Wheelock exhibited a very fine bred and pretty Holstein bull and bull calf; John Simpson also had some pretty young animals of this breed. John Simon had some good Holstein calves which he had bought in Massachusetts. We omit the mention of some other cattle which were not to be seen when we made our rounds.

Orleans County has always had a good reputation for sheep raising, and this department of the fair might be made very attractive if the sheep raisers would bring in their stock. Considering the weather this show was good. In the line of Cotswolds Phillips Bros. and Salmon Bros. made the only show in full blood. There were several pens of grade Cotswolds. Phillips Bros. showed their big buck (280 pounds) bought of the Hill stock at Elmore and which took second premium at the State fair, a buck lamb weighing 100, a yearling weighing 200, several ewes, and lambs on which wool of more than 7 inches in length is growing. They showed the yearling which took first premium at State fair. Salmon Bros. had several pens of this class of sheep and their premiums showed that they are getting close on the heels of the Phillips Bros. Messrs. Leland and Hinkley had several pens of grades that were large and fine. Mr. Nelson showed some very heavy and pretty sheep of the Leicester and South-down orders. Laban Darling showed his big Leicester buck and other sheep. In Shropshire-downs, full blood and grade, there was a good show in which W. B. Stiles, T. F. Wright and S. R. Lathe had perhaps the best. The Lelands and Mr. Hinkley were entered in this class also.

Whatever else could be said of the fair, it must be conceded that the show of dogs was first-class. There were enough of them and the size and quality was all that could be desired. Milo Owen showed a very large show with a full litter of pigs, Geo. N. Jenness, G. P. Fisher and B. F. Piper each had sows with pigs. Ira Sturtevant showed a very large Chester boar, and Geo. W. Jenness and E. A. Norton boar pigs.

This department which might be made of interest was not full. A. N. Bedell showed a trio of Partridge Cochins that were remarkable for size and beauty. They had taken a big premium at Stansfield fair, and Mr. Bedell has large orders for eggs and chicks of this breed. F. A. Belknap showed some pretty fine bred Brown Leghorns; Roy Coburn had Brown Cooks some Hamburgs.

We noticed several tubs of very excellent stirred and hard sugar. C. H. Hannant, J. C. Oliver, E. F. Hinkley, B. F. Piper and several others showed very white sugar. In the butter department there were 15 or 20 specimen tubs, and the committee called the lot unusually good. It will not be best for us to undertake to discuss the merits of butter, inasmuch as all good women in this section read the Monitor, and, for that matter, love it. The show of fruit was somewhat small. Mr. Cheney showed six or eight varieties of apples from his orchard worthy of special mention. O. W. Davis of Waterbury, who makes fruit trees and fruit-growing a specialty, had 18 varieties of apples. They were excellent and helped this part of the show much. Ira Wyman had some good apples on the tables, and there was a little showing besides the above mentioned.

In the line of vegetables, Wm. Willoughby, from the Miller garden in West Derby, showed sixteen varieties of vegetables, including very large cabbages, fine celery, tomatoes, squashes, turnips, etc., etc. Mr. Willoughby is a scientific gardener, and he knows how to make the garden prolific and profitable. His display was creditable to himself and helpful to the exhibition. F. A. Belknap came next to Mr. Willoughby in the number and character of his garden vegetables. R. S. Twombly showed some very large tomatoes. Ira Sturtevant, L. M. Darling, John Thorp, B. W. Flanders and Allen Tichurst made a fine show on potatoes. They were good. Ira Wyman, J. B. Freeman and Mr. Nelson will have plenty of money when their fair premiums are in on their cucumbers and pumpkins. Abel Humphrey showed some fine traces of corn; A. A. Williams showed some fine corn also, and a lot of vegetables; H. Collins put in some fine beans, peas and squash. Among the best things in the vegetable department was some red and yellow tomatoes and some celery, put on exhibition by A. B. Pringle of the Lilydale Farm, St. Johnsbury. The articles showed what can be done in Vermont by good management.

Among some of the things worthy of special mention in this town, we mention the wood furnace made by J. W. Murkland. This is the same furnace he has been selling during the last few years, and is one of the best wood furnaces made. For economy of fuel, cheapness and good working qualities, it is a very desirable heater. Mr. Murkland also showed a cast iron sap heater, and a steel heater of the same pattern, which attracted much attention. These heaters are extensively used, and are liked by all who use them. They are set up almost as easily as a stove, use a small quantity of wood, and are the one thing needed for the sugar maker. The steel will prove, perhaps, better than the iron, from the fact that the steel plates of which it is made will not crack, and the arch can be made much lighter than in cast iron. It looks as though Mr. Murkland had pretty nearly reached the end in line of improvement and perfection. O. M. Olmstead showed a well-made and handsome buggy and a good lumber wagon; Dan Young had a fancy trotting gig. A. G. Alston showed one of the Lyndon sap evaporators, a heater and a water heater; all good things. A. B. Spier exhibited a driving harness that showed excellent workmanship. I. B. Babcock exhibited his improved snow roller which he has had patented. This is a combination roller, consisting of two sets of rollers, large and small, the large ones running over the snow first, and the small ones following a few feet behind. They are fastened together in a frame work, and weigh about the same as the common form of rollers. The inventor claims that they roll the road harder than the single rollers and are much lighter in draught. This roller will be left in town and put on trial next winter, if not previously sold.

J. P. Baldwin filled a corner of the hall with a pretty chamber set, and a fine and costly upholstered parlor set from his ware rooms here. They served to show the character of his goods. The agent for the Vermont Farm Machine Co. was present with a large variety of dairy articles, including two Cooley creamers, churns, butter workers, butter-prints, etc. These articles are used largely in this county and have a reputation established. Geo. Reed and Mr. Whitteer exhibited mowing machines and other farm machinery. In the ornamental side of the hall, Mr. E. G. Shaw of Barton headed the procession with a case of his violins. They are all made by Mr. Shaw and are considered by all judges as A 1 instruments. Mr. Shaw puts much skill, time and expense into them, and they show for themselves what they are. We noticed a few paintings and a variety of fine fancy work, some curiously made pitchers, made from pine roots, and one specimen of taxidermy, some fine needlework and lace work, good carpeting and rugs, a small amount of feeding and mittens, several very pretty quilts, both of the sane and the crazy pattern, with a variety of scarfs, etc. The time we had to spare and the impossibility at that time of getting the names of exhibitors, made it impossible for us to do credit to the makers of the articles exhibited. Considering the deluge, the ladies did remarkably well, both in the character and number of their exhibits.

A. R. Cowles showed a fine Prescot piano and three Wilcox & White organs. One of these is of the Harmonica order, and plays, whether or no. It is calculated for the old and the blind as well as the expert player. These are the organs that Mr. Cowles has sold so largely during the last few years, and they still go. The piano showed excellent finish and tone.

A. L. Bailey had an agent present with a first-class piano and organs. Mr. Bailey is a large dealer in instruments, and has sold hundreds of Eskey organs in northern Vermont. He deals in most varieties of pianos and organs.

The Barton band furnished music through the fair and on Saturday. They suffered not a little from the rain and cold, but played well, nevertheless. The band is a credit to the town and their playing elicited much praise. There were the usual amount of hucksters, pie peddlers and not a few whiskey travelers. The grounds, nevertheless, were orderly and there was little disturbance without. It ought to be so arranged that not a particle of cider, or bottled liquor of any sort could be sold on the ground. The selling of all this stuff is detrimental to the morals of those who witness it.

The receipts on Tuesday and Wednesday were something more than might be expected—but they were not such as to warrant the full payment of the premiums. The Fair Ground Company had a stormy time last year and came out several hundred dollars in arrears, as reported, and they felt that they dare not take the risk of paying full premiums, when they saw this exhibition spoiled, so far as attendance went, by the continued rain. After consulting with such officers of the Agricultural Society as they could find and with exhibitors on the ground it was arranged that the program should be carried out as nearly as possible on Wednesday, and that the premiums should be cut down one-half. The Fair Ground Company regret much that they are compelled to make any reduction, and if this were not the second ruinous year in succession would not ask favors at this time.

The races were postponed until Saturday, but rain set in Friday night and it was impossible to do anything on Saturday. The large number of superior horses present and the desire on the part of many to see the races out, has led to the decision that there will be a two days' race, Oct. 7-8, at which time the county races will be finished and a large number of the best horses in this part of the country put into the field. At that time we will give a record of both races.
